The Pastoral Perspective

By the time you read this, Black Friday will be behind us, and, as far as secular culture is concerned, the Christmas season will have begun. Seasonal music will be everywhere, seemingly universal; the airwaves and internet will be filled with images of Jolly Saint Nick (or at least his modern avatars). Christmas, we will be told, incessantly, has arrived.

Those of us who participate in the community of Christ known as the church are taught otherwise. The new season that has commenced is Advent, signaled not by a tsunami of early-morning, door-busting bargains, but by a familiar Sunday liturgy in late November when candles are lit, readings shared, and, at First Congregational Church of Lebanon, a banner presented by children, to be hung during worship on the pulpit and later on the wall of the Sanctuary.

Advent is a time of waiting and preparation. It's familiar and comforting and, in our all-too-frenetic world, decidedly old-fashioned. Today, we want things and we want them now. If Advent had a spokesman, he would respond to our impatience and say, "Too bad. You need to wait. Be patient. Take a moment to figure out what is really going on. You say you're ready for Christmas, but are you really? Are you really ready for Christmas and what it signifies?"

What does Christmas signify to you? To me? If we're still taking the time to go to church in 2014, it would seem a safe bet that Christmas to us is more than presents and parties. But as members of a larger society that often reduces Christmas to these elements, it's all too easy to be distracted from what this season is all about—the Almighty God's entry into our fallen physical world in vulnerable, frail flesh.

This should give us pause. Yes, it's a great joy that the One who made the universe would choose to be with us, to be one of us. But it should also be a cause for concern and reflection: what kind of God can do such a thing? What kind of God would do such a thing? The answer to the first question, of course, is one who is able to do anything, in any place, in any age. The answer to the second question is one who is love incarnate; only such a God would choose to give all for the sake of a wayward, lost humanity.

COMMITTEE NOTES

CHURCH COUNCIL

At the November Council meeting, Todd Heatherton reported that the Finance Committee had authorized a transfer from trust funds to cover current obligations, as well as $3,200 from special trust fund monies to cover repair work that's been completed around the side and ramp doors.

Pete Mason noted that Nora Miller and others had put the Memorial Gardens "to bed" for the winter.

In his Pastor's report, Steve noted that he presented the Diaconate with his thoughts for inviting discussion about building our ministry for families with young children and teenagers. An open meeting will take place in January.

As we've reached Stewardship Sunday, Jon Scott reported that the Stewardship Committee would continue with its message and report results in January.

Barry Schuster reported some preliminary notes from the ad-hoc task force reviewing FCC's committee structure. Council heard and favorably discussed the possibility of adopting membership ranges for several committees. The Diaconate, too, might adopt a minimum of nine (twelve still being the ideal size). Additionally, the Memorials Committee could reasonably be incorporated into the scope of the Trustees. The group also debated the necessity of the Vice Moderator position. The ad-hoc group will soon return a full set of recommendations to Council, for consideration as by-law amendments.

Council also agreed to revise the fees for using church space, from $60 to $75 for the Sanctuary and $40 to $50 for other spaces. The heating surcharge would increase from a flat fee of $20-$40 to an hourly fee of $10-$15/hour. These changes better reflect costs incurred by church use (while still not fully covering those costs). The wedding fee schedule will not change.

PASTORAL RELATIONS COMMITTEE
Monday, December 15, 7:00 pm
Comments Welcome!

All are invited to share comments, feedback, questions, or other matters with the Pastoral Relations Committee prior to this meeting on December 15.

Please contact one of its members:
Warren Belding (chair), John Gilliatt,
Jennifer Grant, Barbara Jones, Nan Parsons, or Steve Silver.

Save the Date—Sunday, January 11, 11:30 am A Conversation About Family Ministry

Following worship on January 11, all families—active or not, formally members or simply friends—are invited to an open conversation and planning meeting for our ministry for children and families at FCC. Our congregation has a great group of kids, ranging from ages five to twelve, who regularly participate in our common life. How can we best meet their needs? What might we do to attract and invite other families to join us? From what is learned at this session, we will plan two or three activities for the spring.

The Pastoral Perspective, continued from Page 1

Think about what happened on that long-ago Christmas. Think about what can happen on this Christmas. Do this, and I think you'll agree that we need some time to process our thoughts, to arrange our affairs, to prepare for what is coming. Do this, and I hope and pray you'll agree that we need not Black Friday or Cyber Monday but Advent.

Yours faithfully,

Steve

ADVENT Devotional Reflections

If you wish to receive Rev. Steve Silver's devotional messages by email during Advent, please let him know or email revsrs@live.com.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

The thermostats in the Parlor, Parish Hall, and Church School have all been replaced and programmed according to the master schedule of weekly events. While the temperature can easily be adjusted temporarily up or down, no one should alter the thermostat programming except the church administrator.

As FCC strives to improve its energy efficiency, four members of the Board of Governors will visit South Congregational Church in Concord, which has recently conducted an energy audit. The group will seek advice and learn more about what to expect from doing an audit here at FCC.

Electricians have been contacted to repair the front exterior flood lights for the holiday season.

And have you noticed anything pink missing in the Sanctuary? Thanks to Steve Teeter and Lloyd Bennett, the unsightly insulation has been removed from the top of the organ case.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION COMMITTEE

The Church School children have been making a variety of cards for the Called to Care ministry. They have also made centerpieces for the December 7 mission trip forum. On November 30, the children will prepare the creche and present the first Advent banner in worship.

In keeping with our current Church School theme, we continue exploring the likenesses and differences between ourselves and others, and between our country and other countries. We're learning about respecting each other at home, at church and school, and elsewhere.

DIACONATE

At its November meeting the Diaconate reaffirmed the need for more caregivers in the Called to Care program. Linda Jacobs has supplied a new schedule showing two weeks in advance instead of just one. It was noted gratefully that Edith Wheeler and Donna Cornelius had returned to church following health difficulties.

Ron Bailey discussed a program on November 14 at the Methodist Church which focused on the Community Care aging model in Lyme, part of the Village-to-Village Network of programs. The program provides for medical and non-medical needs of residents, both seniors and non-seniors, in a coordinated fashion.

For the December 7 mission forum and potluck, Barb Teeter will shop for beverages and other items. Primary presenters will be Deb Scott (Guatemala) and Wendell Smith (El Salvador), for about 15 minutes each.

In response to the recent report of nursery and childcare needs, Mark Yeager has offered $250 to provide new toys and games, working with Marcia Corkins. Deb Scott will chip in some outlet covers. Hilary Ryder, who has kindly offered to be the Diaconate representative on a future nursery needs ad-hoc task force, purchased band-aids and other first-aid supplies.

Steve Silver reported that he is helping to plan the Interfaith Thanksgiving Service, scheduled for November 23 at West Lebanon Congregational Church. Protestant, Jewish, Muslim, and Zen Buddhist faith communities are all participating. Steve recently met with Rabbi Ed Boraz to begin exploring how we might develop richer ties between FCC and the UV Jewish Community.

With Heart and Soul: Stewardship 2015

Our faithful stewardship—inspired not by a sense of obligation but by a cheerful decision to follow God’s own example of giving and serving—enables and enhances everything that we do at FCC. Thanks to all who have already made a commitment to the church’s mission and ministry for the coming year! To date, we have received 24 pledges for 2015, and we will gratefully continue to accept pledges this month.

Offering envelopes for 2015 are available in the Parish Hall, on a self-serve basis. Please take whichever box you wish and record your name and box number on the list.

As part of his service on the APD Ethics Committee, Steve also attended a program at DHMC focused on end-of-life issues and healthcare directives. Working with the DHMC Chaplaincy, this may develop into a program tailored to clergy.

Mark Rowell met to discuss his ordination paper with the Grafton-Orange Committee on Church and Ministry on November 13, and Steve invited Deacons to attend.

MISSION AND SOCIAL ACTION COMMITTEE

On December 7 our El Salvador travelers will present their stories to the congregation over a potluck lunch after worship, and Deb Scott will report on her visit to Guatemala. The trip was a success and everyone came home very inspired. The group managed to build a house for a family with $6,000 in funding from FCC.

The Mission Committee seeks ideas from the congregation for ways to raise funds to replace some of the resources used for the El Salvador trip, so that we’ll be able to plan for another one! Please contact Corrine Erskine or Jon Scott with any ideas.

We are also working on clarifying the requirements for Community Dinners. We are hoping to involve the Methodist church and perhaps a few other organizations to help us. There is a Community Dinner menu binder in the kitchen for those who wish to lead a supper but need a menu or recipe. The revised requirements will appear in the January newsletter. Please think about leading one of these suppers!

FCC Seeks Assistant Treasurer

The church needs a dependable volunteer to serve as Assistant Treasurer. This vital position is responsible for collecting the weekly offering and recording and depositing all receipts in the bank. If you’re willing to serve the church in this way, please contact Amy Driscoll (603-448-0976/ amykdriscoll@gmail.com).

From the Nominating Committee: Volunteer Opportunities Available!

As we approach a new year, and soon after, a new term for our volunteer committees, Council and the Nominating Committee ask you to think about how you might best contribute your skills and interests to our mission and ministry.

If you’re interested in learning about a particular committee or available opportunities, contact Barry Schuster (603-448-5937/ ivylegal@gmail.com) or Amy Driscoll (603-448-0976/ amykdriscoll@gmail.com).

Report on the 213th Annual Meeting of the NH Conference, UCC

Linda J. Jacobs

Delegates Marcia Corkins, Ike Jacobs, and I attended this conference on October 25, and once again these notes do not do justice to the day. The conference theme, “Proclaiming Our Unity,” was expressed throughout in a variety of ways. There were 336 folks in attendance, which represented only 95 of 138 churches in the state.

Unlike in past years, the morning began with a full worship service, including the choir, hymns, homily, offering, and communion. In prior years full worship had been in the afternoon, and many people left before or during the service, as they have long travel distances. Personally, I prefer the full worship service in the morning, as it sets the tone for the day.

Once the business meeting started, we heard the Treasurer’s report and received the 2015 Mission Income and Spending Plan. We learned that there was a deficit of $62,000 at the end of September and also that the Horton Center in particular will have a deficit for the year, because its revenue doesn’t cover all of its costs. Other resources, however, can help with this most worthwhile ministry—endowments, the cell tower, and some rental space in the conference center. Balancing the budget is a good goal, but it’s important to keep the program alive, as it is the investment in the future of our churches.

The conference also needed $220,000 for Our Church’s Wider Mission. We had all received a “Count Us In” form in our packets, by which our church would promise to send funds to OCWM. (I did not sign the pledge form, as I do not feel that should be up to me alone. I am all for it though, since Christ calls us to be connected and one, in unity.) When put to a vote, the budget passed.

“Speak-Outs” were next on the agenda, and fourteen people spoke for just one minute on something important to them. Here are a few of the topics: the NH Women’s Fellowship Conference, which will be April 6-8, 2015, in Portland, Maine; the Sustainable House of Worship Workshop, which gathers information to evaluate and reduce energy use and costs in our churches; the NH Campus Ministry; the Ukama Partnership, which supports the Zimbabwe representative, a youth director who thanked the conference for the partnership; the lack of a state-mandated minimum wage and the need to push legislators for economic justice; the Horton Center, which is fully accredited now and had 300 campers this summer (from 50 churches and 8 states), with 70 volunteers; the Cornerstone Fund, which gives loans for churches wanting to go green and provide affordable housing; the Christmas Fund, which gives vital assistance to both retired and active clergy in need of financial help.

During lunch, there were four break-out sessions: UCC Leaders Circle (Listening Post); Horton Center; A New Thing Task Force (new and renewing local churches); Resolutions. All three of us joined the Horton Center session, where we heard from three young women who had been campers there during the summer. Made me want to go to camp!

After we gathered again in the main conference room, they read the names of ministers who have served from five to 65 years. Former FCC pastors Norm Dubie (ordained September 27, 1959) and Richard Slater (ordained September 22, 1974) have served 55 and 40 years, respectively. All those in attendance received a certificate.

Two resolutions then came before the conference. The first was entitled, “Jobs Should Lift Workers Out of Poverty, Not Keep Them There: A Resolution of Christian Witness in Scenes from Thanksgiving and the first Sunday of Advent. We are grateful again this year to Kathie Schuster, ably assisted by husband Barry and Carolin Bassett, for our sumptuously beautiful Thanksgiving altar display—which provided an ideal backdrop for Stewardship Sunday as well! The next week on November 30, with the adults busy decorating inside, the Church School kids sculpted some impressive snow angels with the season’s first serious snowfall.

Support of Increasing the Minimum Wage (at Both the State and Federal Level).” This had been submitted on August 29 and adopted by the Board of Directors, acting on behalf of the conference, on September 20.

The second resolution was “A Plan of Action for the Resolution of Christian Witness Regarding the Israeli-Palestinian Conflict,” which had been submitted August 8 with the recommendation of the Peace & Justice Ministry of the NHC-UCC.

Many attendees spoke both for or against this resolution; there were great arguments on both sides, and none of them overlapped either. The resolution passed with a two-thirds majority, and it will now be submitted for a vote at the 30th General Synod in the summer of 2015.

The meeting was completed with a short worship service, which included the hymn “Blest Be the Tie That Binds,” a concluding blessing, and the praise response.

Our folders of conference materials are available in the Parish Hall for anyone who wishes to look at the information I kept.

Below: A blast from the Teeter past. Serendipitously found folded in a hymnal recently, an FCC bulletin from October 2, 1977 lists Rev. Norman Dubie's baptism that morning of Erin Beth Teeter. Ron Bailey was a greeter, and Harold and Doris Morse served as ushers. Parents using childcare during worship were asked to donate 50 cents per child weekly. And later that week, a Christian Ed class discussed "God, Man, and Archie Bunker." Barb and Steve Teeter supplied a few photos for period context (top to bottom): one from that day with Barb's parents, a 1979 Parlor shot with a fussy Erin and tiny Justin, and 5-year-old Erin in a more agreeable mood.
